

Let's not give the cable companies one more way to control consumer spending. We have the flexibility of having affordable cable service now (by not having to pay for the cable box); if we don't want to. That is the one feature I have always appreciated about my cable service. If I simply want "antenna service" for clearer reception and viewing I would not need a box. Let the consumer keep some control! Thanks!